

Connecticut Department of Transportation Bus Maintenance Facility Waterbury, Connecticut

---

Description

During the final design phase of a new transit bus maintenance facility for the Connecticut Department of Transportation, FHI was contracted by the project's architectural-engineering design firm to prepare a series of permit applications for the facility. Located next to the Naugatuck River, environmental permit applications include flood management certification, stream channel encroachment, and stormwater discharge associated with construction. Other permit applications being prepared by FHI include a city driveway permit and a paint booth permit.

Client

Connecticut Department of Transportation

